“I can’t understand why anyone would write fiction when what actually happens is so amazing,” [Nora Ephron] writes. Nothing is off limits to her, even personal humiliation — especially personal humiliation. “When you slip on a banana peel, people laugh at you,” she explains. “But when you tell people you slipped on a banana peel, it’s your laugh.” (From a NY Times Book Review by Liesl Schillinger - August 20, 2006)

Let’s read the collection of essays in I Feel Bad About My Neck by Nora Ephron, the author well-known for her screenplays When Harry Met Sally, Sleepless in Seattle, and Silkwood, and her best sellers Heartburn and Crazy Salad. Then, join us to share and compare our own laugh-out-loud moments.

Copies of the selection will be available for pickup at the circulation desk beginning on December 20.
