Drones: Flight to the Future

Thursday, March 8 7-8 p.m.

Registration begins Monday, February 5

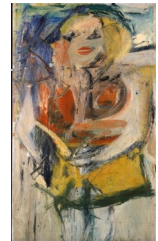

From home delivery and journalism, to disaster management and wildlife monitoring, drones are taking over the skies. How did they get their start and how do they work? Students will be propelled towards the future after learning all about the next step in aerospace engineering. Discover how drones require computer programming knowledge and even experiment flying a drone.

Willem de Kooning: Reimagining the Figure

Thursday, March 29 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Registration begins Monday, February 5

You will explore the life and art of Willem de Kooning, one of the famous artists of the abstract expressionist movement. Using high-end materials and experimenting with color and marks, students will abstract and manipulate their compositions to create unique representations of people. You will create individual pieces that will be exhibited at the Long Island Children's Museum. This program is made possible by a generous grant from The Willem de Kooning Foundation.

Teen Yoga

Thursdays, April 12 & 19 7-8 p.m.

TWEENS WRITING CONTEST

The Library, in cooperation with the North Shore Branch of the American Association of University Women and the Central Nassau Rotary Club, will be sponsoring an exciting writing contest for girls and boys from 6th through 8th grades.

The topic:
"If you had a super power, what would it be and how would you use it to influence people and make the world better?"

Cash prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Applications will be available at the Library in late January. Entries are due at the Library in mid-March. Awards Ceremony will be held at the Library in April.

Let's show everyone what West Hempstead girls and boys can do!
